Interview With Johan via Telegram @jstark123

- 1) Hi Johan, apologies for the first question but I feel it is better to ask the heavy ones early – so, in future will you be willing to come out in public and do a video interview like the CEO of Arbitraging?
We have no issue revealing our identity once the ICO phase is over, this is due to the local laws that ICO is not permitted in Hong Kong. Once the ICO chapter is closed, there is no issue on me or my team members to show our faces.
- 2) Some of your team members are not listed on LinkedIn, is there any particular reason for that?
Most of us are working via firstname only to avoid problem with authorities due to the above.
- 3) You say you will develop consumer renewable energy products and green technology tokenization. What is your progress with it? Do you guys have any past experience with that?
We have operated green data center, distribute solar panels and have been actively participating in renewable energy exhibitions. Yes we do have the experience in some areas of renewable energy, and we are currently in discussion to have our own assembly plant to create an OEM brand that will be saving us a lot along the supply chain.
- 4) Have you considered auditing your whitepaper?
No we have not. Our whitepaper is straightforward, easy to understand and honest. There's no need to furnish it with a lot of jargons and formalities.
- 5) We see a lot of Hype with your project. How much do you think is sustainable?
We do our best to ensure it's sustainable, first of all token circulation will be tightly controlled, even for ICO, we are offering only 6 million token which is very small compare to other ICOs.
- 6) Few things like Github link and blog links are missing, will we see them in future?
Yes you will see them as we have submitted them for listing.
- 7) We saw how weak hands and FUD took down some big lending icos, how will you tackle this problem?
There's a lot of bad news circulating the lending genre, but to tackle it all, we have invested in a fully working platform even before launching our site to plan for an ICO. There is no reason for us not to run it. We do not have an actual softcap, since the project itself is done. All that is left is to operate it.
- 8) Will there be any lock in period for the loans?
Yes, we have 60 days, 90 days and 180 days.

9) Is there any minimum amount for investment ?

Minimum is 0.01 BTC

10) You said in your video that your top priority would be to stabilize the token price. Would you at this point of time willing to tell us how much do you see it?

I will not comment on token price, because it will just be a guess. But on our part, we are working on a few things to ensure token price is stable. First of all, we've enabled interest conversion to BTC, this will avoid people dumping POWL tokens in order to cash out. Secondly, we are burning all transaction fee to ensure there's a balance between the amount generated through staking and the amount we are burning. Finally there is a buy back program to ensure Powerloan will in the long term own back most of the token, keeping the price higher and supply lower. Apart from that, monies collected through Powerloan is used to create other utility token that have basic function and value, this will be airdropped consistently as a reward to the owners. This itself will bump up the value of Powerloan and make it exclusive.
